Flicks in the Sticks

Go a little "retro" this month as Flicks presents two great movies:
a classic from back in the day and a new film based on a classic TV series.

"Goonies" - 8:30 pm - July 10

"Star Trek" - 8:20 pm - July 31

Take a break from the summer heat and bring the kids for some great family entertainment. It's too hot to cook, so why not pick up dinner on the way? You can spread the picnic blanket on the Nature Center lawn. Come early to get a good spot. Free popcorn and cold drinks are available.

Movies begin around sundown - time listed is approximate. In the event of inclement weather, check the HOA website to see if the movie is cancelled or rescheduled.

Flicks in the Sticks is a FREE event, brought to you by the HOA Technology Committee.
Volunteers are always welcome and needed.

July Monthly Gardening Tips

- Flowering dogwood (Cornus florida) commonly is affected by a number of diseases, including the fatal dogwood anthracnose. Protecting your dogwoods from drought stress can go a long way toward keeping them healthy. Make sure they have been mulched in a wide ring with organic material, about 3 inches deep (do not use dogwood leaves or wood as mulch, and pull back from trunk). During prolonged dry periods, water dogwoods thoroughly.
- During dry spells, trees may shed up to 10 percent of their leaves. This leaf loss helps reduce water lost from the tree by transpiration and causes little or no harm to the tree..
- Tip die-back of redbud (Cercis canadensis) may be caused by saturated soil. Redbuds are very intolerant of "wet feet" caused by prolonged wet soil and high humidity.
- Some woody ornamentals attractive to hummingbirds are crabapple, hawthorn, albizia, Siberian pea shrub, tulip poplar, buckeye, and horse chestnut.
- Inner leaves and twigs of trees normally drop from lack of sunlight, but falling clusters of leaves attached to short twigs may result from insect or squirrel activity. Girdling insects make shallow, encircling depressions, while twigs broken by squirrels have diagonally severed ends.

General Manager Comments

I hope everyone is enjoying the pools, tennis courts and trails. Please be aware that covenants inspections are continuing throughout the summer and now is the time to get outside maintenance done on your homes. Remember that lawn maintenance is important and if you will be away, have someone take care of your lawn, pick up newspapers and mail.

Have a wonderful July 4th holiday. Please be careful. As a reminder, many types of fireworks are illegal in the Commonwealth of Virginia. Be considerate of your neighbors.

ASHBURN RURITANS HONOR OUTSTANDING STUDENT CITIZENS

Ashburn Ruritan Club President Barry Dwyer established the theme for the Club's 15th annual "Outstanding Student Citizen Awards" night. He encouraged the awardees to continue the effort that had resulted in their selection for an award by their respective schools at the next educational level they pursue. "Continue to display the enthusiasm for learning, the cooperativeness with your teachers, the compassion and assistance to your peers, and the community service activities that have earned you these awards. The future of our nation depends on your continued outstanding performance."

The event, hosted by the Assistant Principal of Broad Run High School, Douglas Anderson, was held in the school cafeteria in Ashburn on May 18th, 2010 and attended by a crowd of some 140 persons including students to be honored, their families, teachers, school principals, Ruritan members, and honored guest, Ned D. Waterhouse, Deputy Superintendent of Loudoun County Schools.

Students from 21 Ashburn area schools who had been selected by their Principals and teachers as the "Outstanding Student Citizen" of their respective schools received awards.

The awards consist of United States Savings Bonds for Elementary and Middle School student winners, cash scholarships for High School winners, and plaques engraved with the winning student's name for display in each school. In addition, a Ruritan student member received a civic service award for her community service.

In his closing remarks, Ned Waterhouse thanked the students, their parents, school faculty, and Ruritan members for their effort collectively in keeping the Ashburn area and Loudoun County an exceptional place in which to live and work. He pointed out that a primary reason for the growth in Loudoun County was the excellence of the families who lived here and the educators who taught in our schools. (Loudoun County's current high school graduation rate is among the highest in the nation.)

When You Don't Want to Think Outside the Box

By Shannon M. Pecora, M.A.

Stream Valley Veterinary Hospital

On a fairly regular basis, our staff books and sees appointments with clients whose cats have stopped using their litter boxes. Especially when these cats had previously well-established litter box routines, this issue can be mysterious and frustrating. It can take a little detective work to uncover the source of the problem, whether it is behavioral, medical, or a combination of both.

Of course, it helps to start off on the right foot and hopefully prevent such an issue from occurring in the first place, so consider your situation to create the ideal setup. Is yours a multiple-cat home? If that is the case, make sure that you have at least one litter box per cat plus one extra to avoid any territorial spats or lines at the "little kitty's room". It is also important to place boxes in different locations throughout the home. Cats prefer to go where it is convenient, without having to trek across the house or up and down stairs, and they aren't always fond of "doing their business" around everybody else. And think carefully about the different locations you choose. No one really wants to eat, drink, and potty all in the same place, so keep food and water separate from litter boxes. Doggie play areas, noisy household appliances, and high traffic zones can be frightening to felines. It's best to create as much privacy, peace, and quiet as possible around litter boxes, but balance that with accessibility; your kitty shouldn't have to search extensively or jump through hoops in order to relieve himself. And in general, a clean litter box is more inviting, so scoop at least once daily and change litter at least once weekly. Periodically cleaning boxes with soap and water can also be helpful.

Often, the issue is change in the home, whether dramatic or subtle. Maybe you have recently moved to a new home. If so, remember the techniques you used when your cat was a new kitten or adult adoptee. Bring her to the litter box; once you show her where it is, instinct should kick in and she'll know what to do. Did you add a new cat, dog, or even baby to your family? It can take time, patience, and gradual introductions to help your cat settle back into the normal routine. Or you may have made a change that seems simple on the surface, such as switching litter brands or placing a different rug in front of the litter box. Even the little things have the potential to be vastly off-putting, and you may need to return to old ways to get your cat back on track.

As is hopefully clear, disruption of litter box habits can occur for a myriad of reasons. Therefore, perhaps the most important step to take if you notice a change is to make an appointment with your veterinarian. The root of the problem could, in fact, be a medical issue, such as a bacterial urinary tract infection, kidney stones, bladder inflammation, early renal disease, intestinal parasites, or inflammatory bowel disease. A professional veterinary assessment is vital to protect your pet's health and to resolve medical issues as early as possible. Untreated illnesses, even minor ones, have the tendency to progress to serious medical concerns, and unfortunately, an illness that disrupts litter box use can lead to or become behavioral habit, often making it even more difficult to "get back to normal."

The mystery of litter box habit changes isn't always the easiest to solve. However, if you work closely with your vet and are diligent with the techniques the doctor recommends, you should see the investigative and practical teamwork pay off, saving both your carpets and your kitty's health.

A Few Words From Broadlands New Naturalist, Lisa Matthews

Hello Broadlands! I am your new naturalist at the Nature Center. My name is Lisa Matthews and I am from just about everywhere. I have lived in 4 states, visited all but four and have lived in five different countries and visited many more, which was all made possible because I am married to a Foreign Service Officer. I have studied biology, zoology and botany at Cal Poly, SDSU and UMCP and have enjoyed learning about the animals, plants and birds everywhere that I have lived. As a mother of three sons, I was heavily involved in Scouts and had the privilege to organize the nature and science programs for them and also for our local schools.

I will offer programs for our youngest residents, but would also like to offer programs for the Middle and High School students that live in the Broadlands, who are interested in aspects of biology, zoology and botany in a "field" setting. They can sign up at the Nature Center. One Saturday a month I will run a family oriented program and hope to offer a monthly adult program in the future.

Please stop by or send an email to me, naturalist@broadlandshoa.com, and let me know what kind of programs you might like to attend. I would like to provide programs for residents of all ages. I am always open to ideas.

Please come by and visit or call me at 703 729-9726.

July 4th: Any firework that explodes, rises into the air, moves across the ground or shoots projectiles into the air, is illegal to possess in Virginia. These devices include firecrackers, roman candles, pop bottle rockets as well as shell devices used at public displays. For a list of approved fireworks and additional information on the use of fireworks, please go to the Fire Marshall's website at: www.loudoun.gov.

If you do use any of the approved fireworks, please follow these safety tips:

- Never allow children to play with or ignite fireworks.
- Read and follow all warnings and instructions.
- Be sure other people are out of range before lighting fireworks.
- Only light fireworks on a smooth, flat surface away from the house, dry leaves, and flammable materials.
- Never try to relight fireworks that have not fully functioned.
- Keep a bucket of water in case of a malfunction or fire.

Intro to BOSU Workout

By, Katie Herbert CPT
Fitness.innovations@gmail.com

The following is meant to be an introductory workout on the BOSU. Because the BOSU requires the body to work as a whole you should feel a good burn in minimal time. If you are in good shape and feel like some of the exercises are not challenging enough feel free to email me for ideas to take it to the next level. As with all new exercise programs, if you have any questions about your current health, check with your doctor before beginning the program. Enjoy!

To start: March from the floor to the dome side of the BOSU for 1 minute then switch the leg that is leading. Next come to the top of the BOSU and march on top of the dome for 1 minute. Finally, walk in a circle on the top of the dome, switch sides and repeat a couple times. Now that the core muscles have been fired on let's really move!

1. 3 Point Row	2. Dome Squat

3. Push Up	4. Alternating Lunge

5. Straight-arm Plank Knee Pull-in	6.. Kneeling 2 Hand Toss

Perform 12-15 repetitions of each exercise then move to the next exercise. When all 6 exercises have been completed repeat the circuit 2 more times. Remember to have fun and challenge yourself!

FTC Warns of Oil Spill Scams

(Edited for space, full text available at www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/consumer/alerts/alt058.shtm)

It's no secret that scam artists follow the headlines, and the daily news of the oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico is no exception. The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) cautions consumers and businesses to be on the alert for fraudulent activity related to the explosion aboard the Deepwater Horizon drilling rig and the resulting spill – and to report their experiences to federal and state authorities. British Petroleum (BP) leased the rig, which was owned and operated by Transocean.

The FTC says it's likely that scammers will use emails, websites, door-to-door collections, flyers, mailings and phone calls to make contact and solicit money. Some may claim they're raising money for environmental causes or offer fraudulent services related to the oil spill.

The FTC says that at the very least, you will want to do some homework before making a donation.

Regarding Donations to Charities

- Some people may misrepresent an affiliation with an environmental organization when they ask for donations. Check out the charity at www.bbb.org/us/charity before you contribute.
- Beware of sham organizations that use copy-cat names to cash in on the reputations of older, more established charities.
- Rather than clicking on a link to a website, verify the legitimacy of a nonprofit organization by using search engines and other online resources to confirm the group's existence, history, mission and nonprofit status.
- To ensure your contributions are received and used for the purposes you intend, contribute directly to organizations you know rather than relying on other people to make a donation on your behalf.
- If you get pressure to make a contribution, look for another charity. Reputable charities don't use those tactics.
- Avoid donating cash if possible. Pay by debit or credit card, or write a check directly to the charity.
- If an organization suggests you wire your donation to them, cross them off your list. Legitimate charities usually do not solicit donations via money transfer services.
- For more information on the warning signs of a charity scam, visit www.ftc.gov/charityfraud.

Regarding Employment and Volunteer Opportunities

- Avoid any job or volunteer opportunity that requires you to pay a fee before the job begins.

For More Information

For updates on the oil spill, visit usa.gov. Enter "Gulf Oil Spill" in the search field.

Where to File a Complaint

If you suspect that someone is committing fraud related to the oil spill, contact the National Center for Disaster Fraud (NCDF). Call: 1-866-720-5721; email: disaster@leo.gov; or fax: 225-334-4707. The NCDF was originally established by the Department of Justice to investigate, prosecute, and deter fraud in the wake of Hurricane Katrina. Its mission has expanded to include suspected fraud from any natural or man-made disaster.

You also may file a complaint with the Federal Trade Commission. To file a complaint or get free information on consumer issues, visit ftc.gov or call toll-free, 1-877-FTC-HELP (1-877-382-4357); TTY: 1-866-653-4261. Watch a new video, How to File a Complaint, at ftc.gov/video to learn more. The FTC enters consumer complaints into the Consumer Sentinel Network, a secure online database and investigative tool used by hundreds of civil and criminal law enforcement agencies in the U.S. and abroad.
